Harvest-time and wartime garden visits by primary schools

Demonstration sessions in our harvest field, orchard and wartime garden are offered to primary schools visiting between August and October. Led by an experienced demonstrator, children will learn about the various crops and their cultivation, lend a hand with the harvest, and take a sample of produce back to the classroom. The precise content of demonstrations can be tailored to suit the interests of your group and their course of study. These visits are often used to support investigations into food and farming, or historical studies, particularly life on the home front during world war two. Each teaching session involves groups of 15 - 20 students and lasts about 30 minutes. Wellies are advised. In case of extreme weather, activities will take place within the water mill. Most groups spend several hours exploring the farm and the other attractions of Almond Valley, and many bring a packed lunch.

For these autumn sessions, discount admission costs £3.00 per child, with free admission for accompanying teachers and helpers (to a maximum of one free adult per five children). Tractor rides (@ 50p. each) and soft play sessions (£1 per child - maximum age 8) are optional extras that must be pre-booked.

Further information, resources and model risk assessment can be found on our website.
